

Declaration of consent for the processing and publication of personal data, in particular photos, audio and video recordings

I consent to the processing of my video tribute " Happy 50th anniversary htw saar", in particular the images, audio and video recordings contained therein, by the University of Applied Sciences (htw saar). I hereby transfer all rights to my own image, as well as video and audio recordings of myself to the htw saar. This does not, however, apply to presentations or reports created by me. I consent to the processing, duplication, distribution, publication, use and archiving of the above recordings using digital media and other data carriers for the above-mentioned purposes by the university. I agree to the dissemination of the above via the following channels:

- ☐ htw saar homepage: htwsaar.de
- ☐ htw saar Facebook account: facebook.com/htwsaar
- ☐ htw saar Instagram account: instagram.com/htwsaar_
- ☐ htw saar Twitter account: twitter.com/htw
- ☐ htw saar YouTube account: youtube.de
- ☐ htw saar blog: htwsaar-blog.de

My consent is granted for an unlimited period of time.

I am aware that I will not receive any remuneration for granting the aforementioned rights.

The photographic, audio and video material will be stored in accordance with the current data protection regulations. The htw saar accepts no liability for third parties using the above mentioned materials for other purposes without the knowledge of the htw saar, including, but not limited to, downloading and/or copying the recording or otherwise reproducing it.

My consent can be revoked at any time effective for the future.

If any clause of this declaration is invalid or void, or becomes invalid or void, the remainder of the declaration remains valid. The invalid or void clause will be replaced by a provision that comes as close as possible to the content of the invalid or void clause.

I have been informed of my rights according to Art 13 GDPR and have received a copy of my declaration of consent including reference to the aforementioned rights.

I have also been informed that consent is given on a voluntary basis and that I will not suffer any disadvantages from refusing consent. In addition, I have been informed that I can revoke my consent at any time with future effect. The revocation has no effect on the legality of the collection and processing of my personal data prior to the revocation. I can send my revocation to the following Email address:

redaktion@htwsaar.de

If I revoke my consent, my data will be deleted upon receipt of my revocation, unless it has been anonymized beforehand and can therefore no longer be assigned.

Data subject rights

The University of Applied Sciences holds responsibility for the processing of your personal data in the context of university event management. As a data subject, you therefore have the following rights under the GDPR:

a) Right of access - Art. 15 GDPR

The right of access provides the data subject with a comprehensive insight into the data concerning him/her and several other important criteria, such as the processing purposes or the duration of storage. Exceptions to this right, as regulated in Section 34 of the BDSG, apply.

This right of access may be restricted if it is likely to make it impossible or seriously impair the achievement of research purposes and if the restriction is necessary for the fulfillment of the said research purposes.

b) Right to rectification - Art. 16 GDPR

The right to rectification means that the data subject has the opportunity to have inaccurate personal data concerning him/her corrected.

This right to rectification may be restricted if it is likely to make it impossible or seriously impair the achievement of research purposes and if the restriction is necessary for the fulfillment of the said research purposes.

c) Right to erasure - Art. 17 GDPR

The right to erasure means that the data subject can request that the data pertaining to them be erased by the data controller. This is, however, only possible if the relevant personal data is no longer necessary, is being processed unlawfully or if the data subject's consent has been revoked. Exceptions to this right, as regulated in Section 35 of the BDSG, apply.

d) Right to restrict processing - Art. 18 GDPR

The right to restrict processing means that the data subject can prevent further processing of his/her personal data for the time being. A restriction occurs primarily in the review phase of other rights exercised by the data subject. This right to restriction may itself be restricted if it is likely to make it impossible or seriously impair the achievement of research purposes and if the restriction is necessary for the fulfillment of the said research purposes.

e) Right to data portability - Art. 20 GDPR

The right to data portability means that the data subject may obtain the personal data concerning him/her from the controller in a commonly used, machine-readable format in order to have it forwarded to another controller, if necessary. According to Art. 20 (3) sentence 2 GDPR, however, this right is not available if the data processing is used to carry out public tasks.

f) Right to object - Art. 21 DSGVO

The right to object gives data subjects the opportunity to object to the further processing of their personal data in a specific situation, to the extent that such processing is justified by the performance of public tasks or public, as well as private interests.

g) Right to lodge complain with a supervisory authority

Without prejudice to any other administrative or legal remedy, you have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority, in particular in the Member State of your residence, workplace or the place of the alleged infringement, if you believe that the processing of your personal data violates the GDPR. The supervisory authority where the complaint was lodged will inform the complainant of the status and outcome of the complaint, including the possibility of a legal remedy under Article 78 GDPR.

The supervisory authority responsible for the University of Applied Sciences is the:
